CUTTING OFF REINFORCEMENTS

WHILE there has not been any connection established between the North Sea engagement and the explosion that sent the Hampshire to the bottom of the sea with its priceless passenger, the war secretary of Great Britain, the fact remains that henceforth England will experience more trouble in recruiting its fighting forces by enlisting myriads of men from Russia. The losses inflicted in the naval engagement calls for the return to the blockading fleet patrolling the North Sea of such a vast tonnage that it will not be possible for England with the aid of its allies to give adequate protection to the fleets of transports that have been kept in motion between Archangel and Marseilles. Latest reports state that the German west front has been strengthened by the addition of over 100,000 trained and seasoned Russian soldiers from the choicest regiments in the Czar's domain. The movement of such vast bodies through the war zone meshed with mines and strewn with submarines called for the service of vast fleets of warships of every grade from the fast cruiser to the wasteful torpedo boat that can circulate with the abandon of a porpoise to convey the foreign legions from their distant port. To diminish this protection will invite reprisals so, until such time as naval lines can be arranged the importation of troops to and from the east must be conducted with superlative caution.

MARS TAKES A BACK SEAT

THIS week the eyes of the world will be centered on Chicago, where the political future of the country will be woven by spellbinders and molders of sentiment until it is found that the nation is not in such a state of ferment over international complications that it cannot attend to its own business. That there is going to be a housecleaning is past questioning. The old ship of state will be overhauled from keelson to main truck until it glitters like the platform of one more successful campaign will be spread over the land. There is no skepticism about the result. The minds of the electors have been preparing for a change that will bring about wholesome reforms. Uncle Sam, as now pictured by foreign cartoonists, is devoid of chin and backbone and nothing more than a jellyfish that quivers with each throb of the pulse of the world. There has been too much acquiescence in the conduct of affairs by the Wilson administration and the people would welcome any change calculated to bring about a restoration of self respect and assertiveness.

PIRACY IN PORK

WHEN it comes to genuine piracy in "pork" Senator Sheppard of Texas hitches his wagon to a star. Not long ago the Texas Democratic senator introduced a proposal to economize in governmental expenses by cutting the salaries of all government employees. The very next day with peculiar consistency characteristic of the present majority party, Mr. Sheppard introduced measures to provide a $250,000 federal building for Brownsville, Texas, $75,000 structures for Childress, Huntsville and Memphis; and a $50,000 memorial building for Canadian. Brownsville has a population of about 10,000; Memphis boasts 936 residents; Huntsville has 2072; and Canadian 1648.

When it comes to exploits in "pork" the southern Democracy is in a class of its own. As long as former Congressman Burleson of Texas is postmaster general, Memphis, Texas, need not despair of having that $75,000 federal building. Mr. Burleson, like his fellow Texan, Senator Sheppard, is not at all averse to what might be termed an advantageous distribution of "porcine plums."

Somehow or another Germany never gets a decision but it always manages to land on the solar plexus of Great Britain.

CLIPPED AND CREDITED

Carranza evidently finds more enjoyment in bickering with representatives of the United States government than in chasing Villa. —Rochester Democrat.

Colonel Churchill wants to know where those "5,000,000 English soldiers are." That man seems to have a perfect mania for asking embarrassing questions. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

A French scientist has compounded a tablet which will make a glass of beer at one cent. The wets will soon be able to ship their liquids as dry goods. —Detroit Free Press.

Architects predict a new style of architecture after the war. Churches, we presume, will be bomb-proof. —Detroit Free Press.

Thomas Edison says there will be no poverty a hundred years from now. Maybe so, but it does not afford any comfort for millions of people who will die before that time. —New Orleans States.

The American navy has the strongest searchlights in the world. Now, provide the American navy with a strongest something to get what the strongest searchlight reveals. —Nashville Tennessean.

When it comes to politics this year, there are job lots of Americans who seem to be feeding themselves to the squirrels. —Minneapolis Journal.

TAHOE ROAD OPEN TO TRAVEL

The road over the mountains by way of Placerville may be said to be now open for tourists, clear from east to west. Yesterday a party in a small Maxwell, towing a trailer, came up the hill from Placerville to the summit without any difficulty, and that while there is snow in patches on the road, there is none which obstructs the passage of autos. In fact the worst part of the road, on account of the dust, is from Carson to Glenbrook, which is certainly not complaining of the road, for this section is good, as all auto travelers know. Appeal.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

The jury in the case of Sam T. Hathaway, accused of killing A. C. Conrad in the Star saloon sometime in April, after deliberating some 24 hours, brought in a verdict of manslaughter. Under this conviction the statutes provide a penalty of not less than five or more than 10 years, which sentence was imposed by the court. —Las Vegas Review.

HEAD LETTUCE IN KITCHEN GARDEN

The growing of head lettuce in the kitchen garden during the summer seems to be on the decrease. Many persons say they are unable to obtain heads and that the lettuce runs quickly to seed. This difficulty may be overcome by tying bands of raffia round the outer leaves, then bringing them together and protecting the centers of the plants from the hot sun.

The tying should be done when the outer leaves are about the size of the palm of the hand. The raffia should be tied in a bow-knot rather than a square knot. When the head starts to form it is often well to loosen the band a little. By this method the lettuce will head and will be tender and bleached like greenhouse lettuce.

This plan is not yet practiced to any extent. It is doubtful whether it would pay commercial growers on a large scale. But there is no reason why home growers who wish to obtain good head lettuce during the summer should not adopt the method.

MRS. GREAVES, the first white woman resident of Tonopah, left yesterday with her son for Elly where they will make their future home.
